Salaries for women working in factories are about $1.00 an hour. Working privately will allow the women to make approximately three times more than factory work and allow them to be with their families. Each sewing machine costs $250.00. The Region hopes to raise $22,000 in the next year to purchase more sewing machines. Missionaries Ray and Adalia Schellinger-Gutierrez work directly with the women and Cari Ruiz will manage the project. Mark donations for this project and place them in the offering plate, please.

The Home needs the bar code and point value off the Campbell's soup labels as well as other labels that can be seen on the box outside the office for examples. You can put the entire label in the box on the table outside the office, and Karen McCool will cut the necessary information off the labels, etc., and forward them on. Thank you.
